Claims 7, 10, 11, 18-33, 40, 43, 44, 57, 60, 61 and 68 have been previously canceled. Claims 6, 8, 39, 41, 56, 58, 72 have been canceled. Claims 73 and 74 have been added. Claims 1-5, 9, 12-17, 34-38, 42, 45-55, 59, 62-67, 69-71, 73 and 74 are pending and have been considered below.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 18 May 2010 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The applicant has amended independent claims 1, 34 and 51 to include the limitation "the portal provides access to content in a virtual content repository (VCR), wherein the VCR is a hierarchical representation of a plurality of individual content repositories such that the plurality of individual content repositories appear and behave as a single content repository." Hutsch discloses that one of the content services is a virtual hierarchy that represents a number of different data types residing at different locations (paragraphs 24, 25, 109, 110, 0155).

The applicant has amended independent claims 1, 34 and 51 to include the limitation "a second user interface operable to at least one of define and manage an entitlement for said plurality of portal components, wherein different portal components in said plurality of portal components can be associated with different sets of roles, and each different role in said different sets of roles can be entitled with a different set of capabilities, wherein the second user interface allows a user to select a role from a said set of roles for each said portal resource, and the second user interface further allows the user to select different entitlement capabilities from a said set of capabilities for a said role selected by the user for a said portal component." Hutsch makes it clear that different users can have different roles and access rights and that the administrator can set these roles and rights (paragraphs 0156, 0324).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4, 9, 13-17, 34-37, 42, 46-54, 59, 62-67, 69-71, 73 and 74 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hutsch et al. (US 2001/0034771 A1).

Claim 1: Hutsch discloses an interactive tool that can configure a portal, comprising:

- a. a first user interface operable to at least one of define and manage the portal (paragraph 0156), wherein

- b. the portal provides access to content in a virtual content repository (VCR), wherein the VCR is a hierarchical representation of a plurality of individual content repositories such that the plurality of individual content repositories appear and behave as a single content repository (paragraphs 24, 25, 109, 110, 0155), and wherein
- c. the portal is associated with a plurality of portal components and the first user interface uses a hierarchy to manage the plurality of portal components (0115); and
- d. a second user interface operable to at least one of define and manage an entitlement for said plurality of portal components, wherein different portal components in said plurality of portal components can be associated with different sets of roles, and each different role in said different sets of roles can be entitled with a different set of capabilities, wherein the second user interface allows a user to select a role from a said set of roles for each said portal resource, and the second user interface further allows the user to select different entitlement capabilities from a said set of capabilities for a said role selected by the user for a said portal component (paragraphs 0156, 0324); and wherein
- e. the interactive tool runs on at least one processor (paragraph 0324).

Claim 2: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1, and Hutsch further discloses at least one user interface operable to define and/or manage one of: a desktop, a book, a page, a portlet, a shell, a theme, a menu, a look and feel, and a layout (paragraphs 0031, 0095, 0100).

Claim 3: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further the portal operates to include a desktop that can be defined based on a template (paragraphs 0031, 0095, 0100).

Claim 4: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further discloses the portal operates to include a desktop that is a user-specific view of a portal (paragraphs 0094, 0095 and 0100).

Claims 6-8: canceled

Claim 9: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further discloses said entitlement determines what capabilities are available to a portal visitor for said plurality of portal components (paragraph 0324).

Claims 10, 11: canceled

Claim 13: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further discloses the portal operates to include a portlet can dynamically present content (paragraph 0093).

Claim 14: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1, and Hutsch further discloses a fourth user interface operable to define and/or manage personalization of the portal (paragraphs 0093, 0230).

Claim 15: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 14 and Hutsch further discloses the fourth user interface is operable to define and/or manage a content placeholder (paragraphs 0031, 0093, 0230, 0248).

Claim 16: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 14 Hutsch discloses the fourth user interface is operable to define and/or manage a content selector (paragraphs 0094, 0100).

Claim 17: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further discloses a fifth user interface operable to define and/or manage delegated administration (paragraphs 0156, 0310, 0316).

Claims 18-33: canceled

Claims 34-37, 42, 46-50 disclose the steps of a method to be performed by the interactive tool of claims 1-4, 9 and 13-17, respectively, and are rejected along that same rationale.

Claims 51-54, 59 and 63-67 disclose a machine readable medium having instructions stored thereon that when executed by a processor cause a system to execute the interactive tool of claims 1-4, 9 and 13-17, respectively, and are rejected along that same rationale.

Claim 62: Hutsch discloses the machine readable medium of claim 51 and Hutsch further discloses instructions that when executed cause the system to: provide a content management user interface operable to at least one of define and manage content in the VCR, wherein the content management user interface allows a user to modify the VCR by dragging and dropping graphical objects representing VCR nodes (paragraph 0037).

Claim 69: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further discloses each content repository in the VCR is a searchable data store and provides content life cycle management (paragraph 0327, 0510).

Claim 70: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further discloses the interactive tool is associated with a content model that represents a combined content of all repositories as a hierarchical namespace of nodes and each content repository implements content management operations on the content model differently for the particular content repository (paragraphs 0024, 0025, 0109, 0110, 0135).

Claim 71: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 and Hutsch further discloses the interactive tool is associated with one or more content caches that are used to buffer search results and recently accessed content repositories (paragraph 0327).

Claim 72: canceled

Claim 73: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1, and Hutsch further discloses a portal component of the plurality of portal components is associated with one or more nodes in the VCR, and the interactive tool allows a user to change capabilities of a portal visitor to access the one or more nodes in the VCR through the said portal component, by changing one or more properties associated with the one or more nodes in the VCR (paragraph 0335).

Claim 74: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 73, and Hutsch further discloses the interactive tool allows a user to change capabilities of a portal visitor to access the one or more nodes in the VCR through the said portal component, by changing one or more properties associated with the portal component (paragraph 0335).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
5. Claims 5, 38 and 55 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hutsch et al. (US 2001/0034771 A1) in view of Anuff et al. (US 2003/0056026 A1).

Claim 5: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1, but does not disclose a third user interface operable to define and/or manage a desktop; and wherein the third user interface can render a preview of the desktop. However, Anuff discloses a user interface used to provide a preview of a portal or website (paragraph 0107). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to add a third user interface operable to define and/or manage a desktop; and wherein the third user interface can render a preview of the desktop to Hutsch. One could have been motivated to add a third user interface operable to define and/or manage a desktop; and wherein the third user interface can render a preview of the desktop to Hutsch in order to "control accessibility to the site," as disclosed in Anuff

Claim 22: canceled.

Claim 38: Claim 38 reflects the steps of a method to be performed by the interactive tool of claim 5, respectively, and is rejected along that same rationale.

Claim 55: Claim 55 reflects a machine readable medium having instructions stored thereon that when executed by a processor cause a system to execute the interactive tool of claim 5, and is rejected along that same rationale.

6. Claims 12, 45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hutsch et al. (US 2001/0034771 A1) in view of (Hoffman et al. US 2003/0069766 A1).

Claim 12: Hutsch discloses the interactive tool of claim 1 but does not disclose a content management user interface that allows a user to modify the VCR by dragging and dropping graphical objects representing VCR nodes. However, Hoffman discloses a hierarchy management feature wherein a node in a hierarchy can be dragged and dropped to another node in the hierarchy (paragraphs 1032, 1038). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to add the content management user interface allows a user to modify the VCR by dragging and dropping graphical objects representing VCR nodes to Hutsch. One could have been motivated to add the content management user interface allows a user to modify the VCR by dragging and dropping graphical objects representing VCR nodes to Hutsch because this feature, in addition to other features, is required to manage authorization and access with hierarchies (paragraph 1025).

Claim 28: canceled.

Claim 45: Claim 45 reflects the steps of a method to be performed by the interactive tool of claim 12, respectively, and is rejected along that same rationale.

Conclusion

1. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).
